A minimalist map showing the borders of Venezuela and Guyana. The map is rendered in shades of gray. The border between the two countries is a thick, dark gray line. The word 'VENEZUELA' is written in bold, black, uppercase letters in the upper left. The word 'GUYANA' is written in bold, black, uppercase letters in the lower right. The name 'Georgetown' is written in a smaller, black, sans-serif font just above 'GUYANA'. The map includes a grid of thin gray lines representing latitude and longitude. The coastline of Venezuela is visible at the top, and the coastline of Guyana is visible on the right. The interior of both countries is a light gray color.
